HARDING SEES WORLD PEACE

Will be Brought About by Disarmament Conference Called by United States, Harding Says in Speech at Celebration of Landing of the Pilgrims

Seed Planted at Plymouth by the Fathers, Chief Executive Declares—Great Military Pageant Is Staged as Part of the Tercentenary

PLYMOUTH, Mass.—(By Associated Press.)—A hope that the disarmament conference called by the United States may bring to the world a new era of peace and freedom was expressed by President Harding today in an address here at the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

Characterizing the international situation as "more than promising," the president asserted that the seed of common tolerance and understanding planted by the fathers here was beginning to bear fruit a thousandfold in the relations between nations.

"A new hope looms today," said the president, "We are slowly but very surely recovering from the wastes and sorrows and utter disarrangements of a cataclysmical war. Peace is bringing its new assurance, and pent-up civilization and insistent conscience will preserve that peace. Our faith is firmer than war's causes may be minimized and overburdening armaments may be largely diminished, and these, too, without surrender of the nationality which has inspired the great conscience which has defended.

PROMISING PROSPECT
"The international prospect is more than promising and the distress and depression at home are symptomatic of early recovery. Solvent financially, sound economically, unrivaled in genius unexcelled in industry resolute in determination, and unswerving in faith, these United States will carry it."

In the course of his speech Harding praised particularly the part religious freedom and other New England traditions had played in the development of the nation. He also took occasion to deplore the common tendency to concentrate governmental authority in Washington and to reaffirm his faith in religion as an essential element of good government.

The president said in part: "It is not too much to say that the three centuries which have passed since men of our race came here to found a new state have been the most momentous and the most pregnant in all the progress of human history."

"To this end the Virginia shore was transplanted the seeds of representative democracy, the new idols of nationality through association and representation and there has developed seemingly the most dependable form of popular government ever witnessed in the world."

"Whether we reflect upon the restraints upon freedom which the fathers imposed, or measure the broader liberty under the law of today, here began the reign of dependable public opinion, which unfailingly is the law of highest civilization. One may not say whether the Puritans at home would have been able to work out such a system if there had been no American colonies and the colonial influences to react upon the mother country. Doubtless, the English revolution which came soon after the settlement at Plymouth, would have come even had there been no settlement here, no Massachusetts Bay Colony, no Virginia plantation. But it is easy to believe that in the long struggle after the restoration, the fruits of the revolution, the strengthened parliamentary institutions and the restrictions of royal prerogative were helped by the influence of colonial democracy."

FERTILE SOIL FOUND
"If the idea of religious freedom had little to hope from the effort of the stern old fathers to set up a democracy in New England, the ideal of political freedom found here a particularly fertile soil in which to germinate."

The clash between a theocratic tyranny on this side and a political tyranny on the other resulted in the devotion of both, to the vast betterment of every human interest involved.

"The perspectives of history are not safely to be judged save from the loftiest peaks of human experience. It is the dearly bought privilege of our generation to stand on one of those heights of the long ages, to look back over the pathways by which we have come thus far, to see clearly what have been the paths traveled, roads and what the by-paths. If we will but let our minds record that which our eyes tell us, we will note that the wide spreading landscape behind us is now vastly changed. It is not what it seemed when we were passing thru it. We see that some of the routes which we supposed were the false ways of wasted effort. Others which are the journey's end and to be counted on as its marches of anguish, we recognize as the short cuts that carry us quickly to loftier levels and safer positions."

LOOK TO FUTURE
"We stand today before the unknown, but we look to the future with confidence unshaken. There is no retreating; we must forever go on. We welcome theories without out new hope, but we cling to the assurance founded on experience. All that is not bad; all that is to be, will not be ideal. We cannot lift the veil to the future, but we can analyze and understand what has gone before. It is good to keep our feet firmly on the earth to see the future."

NINE-YEAR-OLD JOURNEYS ALONE FROM AUSTRIA

Lydia Matucek.

BRIDGEPORT, Ohio.—(Special)

—Lydia Matucek, nine years, has made the journey unattended, from Witkovice, Austria, to Bridgeport, a suburb of Bridgeport. The child was two years old when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matucek, left Bohemia to come to America. She was left in the care of her grandparents, being too ill to make the trip. The war later prevented it. The father later died. She was found to be impossible, and the Red Cross was appealed to. That organization arranged for her transportation on the transport Sonoma and she made the trip without incident, sailing from Antwerp, Belgium. Arriving in New York, she was met by Red Cross representatives and placed on a train for Wheeling, where her parents met her.

7 DIE, MANY HURT IN STORMS

Wind and Lightning Bring Havoc to Eastern Section

NEW YORK.—(By Associated Press.)—At least seven persons were killed and many seriously injured in severe electrical and windstorms that swept various sections of the country yesterday and Saturday night. Four of the deaths were attributed to lightning.

Loss to buildings struck by lightning and damage to crops, particularly in New England, as said to amount to thousands of dollars.

LIGHTNING VICTIMS
In West Northfield, Mass., Harry Field, Jr., 12, was killed when lightning struck a barn in which he had taken refuge.

G. A. Gotschalk, of New York, met death at Rhinebeck, New York, when lightning struck a tree under which he was standing.

As one was leaving the golf links near Lakeview, Mont., Mr. Harry E. Lay was killed by lightning.

Water Whitworth of Worcester, Mass., was killed by lightning while seated under a tree at Marlborough.

James Little was killed when a tree fell on his automobile during a storm and Mrs. William Belford and her 12-year-old grandson were crushed to death near Goldensboro, by the fall of a wall of their home during a wind storm.

HAIL ACCOMPANIES RAIN
At Travers Island, N. Y., thirty members of the New York Athletic Club had narrow escapes from serious injury, all of them being knocked to the ground by a bolt of lightning.

Hall was accompanied by rain in several eastern states and one of the hailstones picked up after the storm in Russell Co., N. J., was reported to have weighed eleven ounces.

COUPLE DROWNED
ERIE, Pa.—(By United Press.)—William M. Landis, 28, and his niece, Alice Landis, 17, were drowned Sunday afternoon in the lake while bathing off the outer beach of the peninsula. The couple waded out in a heavy swell and suddenly dropped down beyond their depth in deep water and disappeared. Another unknown bather tried to rescue them and was with difficulty pulled out by a woman bather.

Miss Landis' body was discovered half a mile from the scene of the drowning, but coast guards had to abandon the search for Landis' body on account of the heavy sea. They will resume the search today.

Burkhardt May Decline To Name Dr. Knisely As Safer

Free Hand, Only, Asked By Volunteer Safer

A free rein to serve his city is the only stipulation made by Dr. A. F. Knisely, retired surgeon and oil man, in his letter to Mayor Burkhardt in which he tenders his services as safety director. The letter was made public Monday.

Hon. F. A. Burkhardt, Mayor, Lima, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

Hearing that you could not get a safety director who would devote all of his time to the office for the small salary allowed, I hereby tender my service to you for the office without salary, the same to be given to the police and firemen's pension fund.

All I ask is a free hand and no obligations, believing that you and I would be able to get along without any friction. In case you see your way clear to accept, I will devote all of my time, and to the best of my ability, assist you in every way possible. This offer is made in good faith and for the best interests of our city.

Respectfully,
DR. A. F. KNISELY.

NOTORIOUS FEUD LEADERS ARE KILLED IN GUN FIGHT

Former Chief and Policeman of Matewan Shot to Death in Row With Private Detective at Welch, W. Va.—Believed Outgrowth of Old Mining Trouble

WELCH, W. Va.—(By Associated Press.)—Sid Hatfield, former chief of police of Matewan, and Ed Chambers, a policeman of that place, were killed in a gun fight in the courthouse yards here shortly before noon today.

T. C. Lively, a private detective, and four other persons were arrested in connection with the shooting.

Hatfield was arrested last week in connection with the shooting up of the town of Mohawk, W. Va., about a year ago and brought to Welch, where he was placed in jail. Chambers also appeared in court today in connection with the same case. Hatfield was released on bail and was with Chambers this morning when they became involved in a quarrel with Lively and some of his friends.

In the shooting which followed, Hatfield and Chambers were killed. Hatfield was chief of police in the little mining village of Matewan on May 19, 1920, when a party of private detectives were sent there to convict miners from houses of the Stone Mountain Coal corporation. He was charged with leading the people of the town who battled with the detectives as they were about to take a train for Bluefield after the evictions. Ten persons were killed in the fight and Hatfield, Chambers and 23 others were indicted.

At the trial which was held at Williamsport, the county seat of Mingo, early this year, T. C. Lively was one of the most important witnesses for the state. He testified that he had gone to Matewan soon after the battle and opening a store there he had gained the confidence of many of those mentioned in connection with the shooting. He admitted on the stand that he was in the employ of the detective agency whose men had been killed in the fight.

Lively closed his store at Matewan during the trial, which resulted in the acquittal of Hatfield and his companions, and his name had not been mentioned in connection with the Mingo industrial troubles until today.

HATFIELD'S CAREER
MATEWAN, W. Va.—(By Associated Press.) Sid Hatfield, who was killed at Welch today, also only 25 years of age, was one of the best known men along the West Virginia-Kentucky border. He was born in this community and after going to work in the mines became a mine electrician. He early became interested in politics and was made chief of police of Matewan under Mayor C. C. Teeterman, who was killed in the fight with private detectives here in 1920 and whose widow Hatfield married less than two weeks later at Huntington, W. Va.

The tragedy at Welch today made Mrs. Hatfield a widow the second time in less than two years.

After Hatfield's acquittal at Williamsport for the part the state charged he played in the fight here, he returned to Matewan and transformed the jewelry store which Teeterman formerly owned into a hardware store which sold among other things, arms and ammunition.

RECENT ARREST
In the spring election he was elected constable of Magnolia district, the township in which Matewan is situated. This office gave him the right to carry arms in spite of the federal law for Mingo.

Soon after his election, Hatfield was arrested charged with assaulting J. J. Smith, superintendent of the Stone Mountain Coal Corporation from the houses of which charged miners had been evicted just before the Matewan fight a little more than a year ago. Hatfield was taken to Williamson where he was threatening letter.

Mayor Declares He Will Not Surrender Any of His Power to Anyone in Discussing Offer of Service Without Compensation

Confidant Predicts Chief Executive Will Ignore Tender—Hendershot's Resignation Not Accepted—Salary Boost Up

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt may not name Dr. A. F. Knisely director of public safety.

The prediction that the mayor would ignore the offer of the retired surgeon and oil man was made Monday by a man who likes to refer to himself as a confidant of the mayor and who takes the credit for the appointment of C. M. Hendershot, who resigned a few days ago.

Burkhardt received the letter Monday from Dr. Knisely in which he offers to serve as safer, giving all his time to the job. He says he will accept no salary, but will turn it back to the police and firemen's pension fund. His only stipulation in his letter is that he be given a free rein to run the department.

The letter was handed to Burkhardt Monday morning on the street by Knisely. A conference had been arranged for Sunday afternoon over the telephone, but it is said that Burkhardt did not keep it.

The two talked briefly upon their meeting Monday morning and the mayor is said to have told Knisely he would call on him in case he decides to appoint him.

MAYOR SAYS HE WILL NOT GIVE UP ANY OF HIS PRESENT POWER.

Burkhardt declined to say what he probably will do in the matter of Knisely's offer. He declared, however, that he will not surrender any of his powers as mayor. This is taken to mean that he will not name a man who demands a free hand, but will appoint only someone who will do only the mayor's bidding.

"I will surrender no power to anyone," Burkhardt said in discussing Knisely's letter. He then explained that as head of the city government he must have control of all departmental matters and the policy pursued.

The mayor said Monday that he has other offers in addition to that made by Knisely, but that none of the others proposed to serve without pay.

Burkhardt said at noon that he had not accepted the resignation of Hendershot. This may not be done until after council meeting, it was said.

Council probably will be asked to raise the salary of safety director, which is now $600 a year. It is pointed out that this would be unnecessary if the mayor desires to forego politics and dictation and name a man who will serve without salary.

BASES ARE READY FOR LIGHTING STANDARDS

Bases for the lamp posts of the boulevard lighting system being installed in the business district and residence section are practically completed, City Engineer Vaughn Miller announced Monday.

The Northern Electric company, Columbus, contractors on the work, expect to commence laying wire some time during the present week.

BEAUMONT GIVEN ALASKA POST

Former Lima Man Paid High Honor By President Harding

George D. Beaumont, former Lima man, was appointed United States Marshal of Alaska Monday by President Harding, according to word received here. The position pays $18,000 a year.

Beaumont will be remembered as being connected with the Buckeye Pipe Line Co. here. He left Lima about 15 years ago and was in Alaska when the war started.

Upon volunteering his services he was made a second lieutenant and returned with the rank of major. Beaumont, a telegrapher, was in charge of the signal corps division which received the order to stop the war upon the armistice being signed. He personally sent the message over his instrument and still has the original copy from headquarters.

He was in Lima some time ago and spoke before the Rotary club. It is expected that he will visit here shortly.

SHOP DYNAMITED

Explosion Believed Due to Shoe Repair Price War

YOUNGSTOWN, (By Associated Press.) Explosions of dynamite in a shoe repair shop in the business district here early today are believed by police to be the outcome of a price war among shoe repairers.

The front of the shop owned by Frank Spanic was blown out, and practically all the machinery was destroyed by carefully placed dynamite. Pieces of machinery were blown thru walls into stores on both sides of the shop. The loss is estimated at $1,600. Spanic had received a threatening letter.

ROBBERY PLOT NIPPED BY ARREST OF NINE PERSONS

CLEVELAND.—Nine men, reported to have plotted a thirty thousand dollar payroll robbery holdup for noon today, were being held by police for investigation following a raid on a house here this morning on a tip that the plotters were ready to attack.

Detectives who made the raid found the nine men preparing to leave for a construction camp at Elletts, or a quarry at North Amherst where police say a raid was to be staged. Eleven automatic pistols were found on the men. One gun butt had notches carved on it.

TWO BADLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.—Hospital attendants reported this morning that Miss Hazel Fennimore, who was injured in an automobile accident near New Carlisle last night, is in a serious condition. She is injured about the neck. Judge John Davis of police court is suffering from body wounds. The four other occupants of the car which was overturned during an embankment are: Miss Lillian Dille, Miss Lulu Cunningham, William Ocas, of Springfield and C. A. Mauldin of Chicago. They are only slightly injured.

EX-SOCIETY BELLE DIES OF POISON

Baltimore Woman's Body Found in New York Hotel

NEW YORK.—(By Associated Press.)—The body of Sarah Cowen, former Baltimore society girl and daughter of the late John J. Cowen, one time president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which was found in a hotel room here yesterday, remained unclaimed in the morgue today.

Miss Cowen died, the medical examiner's office reported, of alcoholism and drug poisoning.

Police records show that the young woman, after being dismissed in 1919 from a post graduate hospital, where she had been a probationary nurse, was committed to Blackwell's Island as a drug addict.

Nothing further had been heard of her since her discharge from Blackwell's Island as cured.

BEAUTIFUL DEBUTANTE
Reports from Baltimore said Miss Cowen had dropped out of the social life of that city several years ago. She had been known in Baltimore as one of the most beautiful debutantes of the season when she made her debut, and in 1909 eloped with Charles T. Hanson, Jr., of New Haven, Conn. She later divorced Hanson.

The police were searching today for a man with whom Miss Cowen registered at the hotel, hoping he could shed more light on her recent life and the manner of her death.

The man disappeared after finding Miss Cowen dying.

POSTAL ORDER IS ANTICIPATED

Lima Postoffice Starts Curtailment Before Ordered

BIG RETRENCHMENT PLAN

Expenses Reduced But Service is Not Impaired

Anticipating a series of orders received from the office of the Postmaster General of the United States, Postmaster J. E. Sullivan of the Lima office inaugurated two months ago a system of retrenchment at the local office for the curtailment of expenses, without impairment of the service.

A hint was all that was necessary for postmasters in charge of the offices in the larger cities of the country, that a shifting and rearrangement of working conditions would be necessary in the interest of economy in the conduct of the postal business. Hence, Postmaster Sullivan was one of the number who began carrying out a program along that line 60 days before verbal orders were reduced to print and submitted as official.

ECONOMY IS ORDERED.

Postmaster General Will Hays determined upon post-war readjustment as a means of cutting down expenses and reducing the postal deficit. In this connection there has been a great deal of talk about the return of three-cent letter postage as a means of bringing up revenues, but nothing of an official character has been given out.

Postmasters in charge of 10,000 offices have been ordered to practice the most rigid economy, but not in such a manner as to impair service. Instructions call attention to the acute financial conditions of the country and to the necessity of meeting the desire of President Harding for economy in public expenditures as far as possible, in the postal service.

Extravagant and expensive methods are aimed at in the order. Practices that were designed to facilitate service were dropped during the war, but which are now designed to dispense with in peace time.

Plans have been made for a reduction in expenditures among post offices for a total of $5,000,000 out of the $15,000,000 to be saved in postal expenditures for the current fiscal year. During the past several months a careful comparison of expenditures and receipts has been made. In many instances the business and receipts of offices has doubled, even tripled, incident to the war and in consequence the clerical and carrier forces were increased accordingly. This included payment of considerable overtime to regular employees and large expenditures for auxiliary and substitute service.

EMERGENCY HAS PASSED.

The emergency has now passed, the department holds and with population and business reduced at many points, there are few who have made any appreciable curtailment in expenditures or who have voluntarily reduced the employed force. Instead, the tendency has been toward more employees and more expense.

The Lima office is one of the few where close watch has been maintained to prevent increased costs while postal receipts generally all over the country have been in a state of decline.

Postmasters are urged to consider a revision of schedules of clerks and carriers, shifting of forces from one section to another and to arrange the work in the office so that the necessity of overtime may be avoided.

The general public can help in this campaign by early mailing, using mail facilities at residences and in business houses and elsewhere. Use of pre-cancelled stamps, facing of mail and simple routing by heavy users of the mail is urged as an aid to economy, as well as a help in quick dispatch.

"We anticipate a curtailment order," Postmaster J. E. Sullivan stated Monday, "and started a movement along that line two months before the official orders were received. Consequently, we are in position to meet the requirement immediately; in fact, we have already met it."

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN

Home again, dusty with travel, tired, hungry. "Something to eat, quick," and you turn to the kitchen range. A match, a twist of the wrist, and there it is, the same old reliable and efficient gas!

Yes, and it has been there waiting in the pipes for you all the time you were away, ready to respond instantly to your whim or necessity.

Readiness to serve!

Tomorrow you will call upon us again for service, but you will give us no warning from hour to hour just what your requirements will be. Yet, the gas will be there, plenty of it at all times, ready to be used in large or small quantities as you see fit.

Again readiness to serve!

To us it means having gas on tap, 24 hours a day, 365 1/4 days a year, whether you use it or not.

Have you ever thought of it in this way?

THE LIMA NATURAL GAS CO.
THE LIMA GAS LIGHT CO.

CONGRESS PLANS DRIVE ON PRICES

Proposed Scheme Would Force Reduction Thru Taxation

INCREASE LUXURY SCHEDULE

Puts Levy On Entire Cost Of High Rated Article

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press.)—A plan to use the taxing power of the federal government to force down the prices of articles which have remained high, while the cost of raw materials and other commodities have taken a big drop, is being considered by the house ways and means committee in revising the revenue laws of the government, Chairman Fordney said today.

The proposal is by a rather indirect method to increase the tax rates on the scaled luxuries. At present, under the luxury tax section, only the cost of an article above a certain figure—generally considered a fair average price—is taxed. Under the new plan as outlined by Fordney any article that sells above a fair average price would be taxed on the entire sale price and not just the amount above the fair level.

USED IN CANADA.—said Fordney, "Suppose it was determined that the maximum price the average man pays for a pair of shoes is $8. Under present laws, if a dealer charges $10, the tax applies only to $2. Under the new plan which the committee is considering, the tax would apply on $10 at about the same rate as now applies to $2."

"The plan would have the effect of forcing down the price of many articles which have remained on a high perch, despite the fact that the raw materials that go into them have shown decrease. People who can pay extravagant prices for various articles, would not be hurt much by the tax."

Fordney said the new plan is being used in Canada and that he has written Canadian officials to determine how successful it has been there.

U. S. LOSING TRADE.—(By Associated Press.)—Exporters for improvement to Argentina, South American business conditions were pictured as depressed during July, in the reports of economic conditions from its trade representatives made public today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Foreign competition to American commercial activity was reported strong, particularly from the Germans and Belgians. Prices ranging from 20 per cent to 75 per cent less than those on American commodities were being quoted, it was said, and numbers of American concerns were closing their South American offices.

The commercial situation in Argentina showed improvement in that imports were decreasing and exports increasing. Commercial Attaché Pedro de Buenos Aires declared. Reports from the United States were still showing a marked decline and because of the exchange rate there was little prospect of placing orders for American goods except some necessities.

PLAN TO BOOST BOND INTEREST RATE IN AID OF THEIR SALE

Finance committee of council, headed by Earl Rohn, Monday night will recommend that certain issues of bonds be changed to run for a longer time and carry larger rates of interest.

Among the changes in issues planned will be to increase the rate of interest on Collett-st sewer bonds from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent yearly. Changes were recommended at suggestion of City Auditor David L. Ruppert, who holds that the less cost he sold if authorized for longer periods.

PEACE MOVES ON AT CAPITOL

Disarmament and U. S.-German Affairs Taking Definite Form

PACT WITH BERLIN IN MAKING

Harding May Issue Proclamation In Ten Days

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press.)—Important peace moves were under way here today on the seventh anniversary of the beginning of the World War.

Secretary Hughes, in cooperation with representatives of other world powers expected to make progress toward settling a formal date for the opening of the world disarmament conference and arranging other preliminary details for those parleys.

U. S.-GERMAN RELATIONS.

Also progressing toward results are the conversations between Ellis Loring Dresel, American commissioner in Berlin, with German officials over the question of formally establishing a state of peace between the two nations and working out a treaty.

As announced by the United Press recently, the making of a separate treaty of peace with Germany instead of adopting a much-amended Versailles treaty, now seems certain. The separate treaty, however, is expected to appropriate some of the economic clauses of the Versailles pact.

PROCLAMATION SOON.

The conversation between Dresel and German officials has an object to the something away of obstacles to a quick agreement on a treaty.

Preceding the treaty will be a proclamation of peace by President Harding. He may make this proclamation from Lancaster, N. H., where he is going for a ten-day vacation.

COUNTY HEALTHURGES WAR ON FLIES, REFUSE, AS DISEASE DETERRENT

Allen-co Health Commissioner Dr. J. J. Sutter announced Monday that the usual summer diseases are not so prevalent this year in Allen-co. as in former years.

Dr. Sutter has issued orders to guard against sickness in the hot weather. The chief causes of illness are impure water, flies, mosquitoes, garbage and refuse. "Water is the main thing to be watched, and it is through impure water that most germs reach people," Sutter states.

"Flies are a menace, as they often cause such diseases as typhoid fever and diphtheria. They can be combated by keeping all foods screened and by removing all filth," Dr. Sutter stated.

"It is a little known fact that any odor that is offensive to man attracts flies, while any odor pleasing to men is offensive to flies and will keep them away. Flowers with pleasing odor will help keep the flies away."

"Mosquitoes breed in swampy wet places. By destroying their breeding places people can eliminate the chance of contracting malaria, as mosquitoes are known to carry malaria germs."

Health officers point out that if the fly, mosquito and refuse menace is eliminated and if the drinking water is pure there will be a great decrease in the number of cases of illness in the summer months.

He was killed early in an engagement at Chateau Thierry on July 28, 1918. Rutledge was born in Ada.

The body of Byron Hise, who died in the world war and who was a brother of Gus D. Hise, was brought to Lima and interred on Decoration Day.

POSTS IN STREET HELD MENACE

City to Proceed Against "Defender of Allentown-Rd."

Council will be asked Monday night to authorize Solicitor H. E. Garling to institute suit to compel James Carter, "Defender of Allentown-Rd." to remove a row of iron posts along the road fronting his property. The posts are described as a menace to traffic and have already caused two motor accidents, it is claimed.

Carter won the title of "Defender of Allentown-Rd." when, during its construction by the county, he for a time is said to have defied county surveyors, engineers and workmen to proceed with the improvement. Court proceedings compelled him to permit the road to be constructed.

The paving in inside the city limits is 27 feet wide. Now the edge Carter has placed a row of concrete filled iron posts. Two cars have been wrecked striking them. Solicitor Garling, who was ordered to investigate, fears the posts may cause fatalities.

The posts are alleged to be in the street and Garling wants authority from council to force Carter to remove them. He announced that he will see assistance of both county commissioners and prosecutor Eugene Lippincott and invite the county to act jointly with the city.

If the commissioners decline to do so, the city will probably act alone.

The existence of the posts was first called to the attention of the council by H. J. Brice, member from the Sixth ward.

WIDOW, MOTHER OF TWO CHILDREN, LOST $100 SAVED FOR THE WINTER

Lost, pocketbook containing nearly $100, belonging to Mrs. Gertrude Wings, 1009 Hughes-ave., widow and mother of two children, aged 10 and 12.

It happened after Mrs. Wings had hired a horse and buggy that she might tour the city in search of a home for herself and her two children.

Mrs. Wings called The Lima News office Monday morning, and began sobbing over her story.

The woman has been taking in washings for the support of herself and children and the money lost represented her savings to help tide over the winter. During her search for a new place of residence her worries were many and it was then that the purse disappeared. The unfortunate widow is hopeful that the money has been found by an honest person and that it will be returned to her.

GUARDIAN NAMED FOR HARROD WAR VETERAN

Isaac P. McClure, Harrod, was appointed Monday as guardian of Aaron Valentine, 78, Civil war veteran, Harrod, now a patient at City hospital. Because of his age, Valentine is said to be incompetent to take care of his affairs.

He has no family. His only living relative is a sister in Michigan. Valentine's holdings consist of checks, bonds and notes, amounting to $2,000 and a life estate in a house and lot.

Nine persons, led by J. L. B. Leatherman, Harrod, petitioned for the appointment of the guardian, after Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner, had found it necessary to remove Valentine to the City hospital here.

ECONOMIC LIFE OF BRITAIN PERILED

Menaced By Germany Paying Indemnity, Vanderlip Says

SEES TEUTON MARKET BLOCK

Will Hit English Trade by Sale of Labor

LONDON.—(By United Press.)—Frank A. Vanderlip, American financier in an interview with the United Press, declared today: "Germany's payment of indemnity claims will gravely endanger England's economic life."

Vanderlip explained the paradox when he added:

"Germany can pay her debts only by selling her labor. That's all she has. If she succeeds in doing that, it will mean that she will be filling up the market to which England must export her higher priced goods. FRANCE NOT HIT."

"France can feed herself, so she will not suffer if Germany pays the indemnity. Economic laws are as irresistible as gravity and the intricate machinery of economic trade is wrenched out of working order at this moment."

Vanderlip's statement coincided with the declaration of Walter Rathenau, German minister of reconstruction, that Germany can meet the financial demands of the allied ultimatum only with her manufactured goods.

FOOD SUPPLY IN DANGER

Rathenau in a report on reparations negotiations, said he has been organizing German industries to execute the orders which France will give. The delivery of the goods will take the place of cash which Rathenau believes could not be provided.

"The world's food supply is in danger," Vanderlip declared. "There is enough food, but distribution is faulty and the situation is aggravated, rather than improved by the treaty of Versailles."

The treaty can be made economically sound, he said, if commercial relations among the nations are re-adjusted.

The population of the world, Vanderlip said, is increasing by 17,000,000 annually. Europe and England have a hundred million more than they can feed with their own products making the distribution of food a paramount problem.

POULTRY CULLING IS PLANNED

Seventy Demonstrations in Allen-co to be Conducted

Poultry culling demonstrations will be held in Allen-co. from August 13 to September 16th. About 70 demonstrations will be held, an average of 10 a week, according to County Farm Agent L. S. Van Natta.

C. L. Northrop of Yellow Springs, O., a practical poultry raiser, has been scheduled for 44 demonstrations. J. S. Van Natta will be in charge of 14 demonstrations. This system of teaching the farmers of Allen-co to cull their poultry was started last year by the County Farm bureau and has proved very successful.

The demonstrations show the culling process and new practical hints on poultry raising.

The poultry business is larger in Allen-co. than any other single business. The value of eggs and poultry produced annually in the county is $349,768. The nearest competitor to chickens is hogs, with a total of $43,831 a year. Other values are Beef cattle, $428,532; sheep, $181,560 and fruit, $33,730.

There are 292,045 chickens in the county. Of these nearly 30 per cent or 87,913 are culls. If these culls can be disposed of it will mean a saving of $32,447 in feed to Allen-co farmers and if they can be sold in July or August it will mean a saving of $17,582 or a total saving of $70,329.

Every township in the county will be visited and all farmers will have the opportunity to materially increase their poultry profits from the demonstrations.

JOHN T. COTNER ASSUMES DUTIES AS COUNTY CLERK

Clem closed the duties of the office in the morning Monday. He will go for a vacation trip by way of a vacation before engaging in another vacation.

Cotner passed cigars to lawyers and those who had business with the office Monday. To the women he presented delicious candies.

Cotner was formerly instructor in the commercial branches at Central High School.

CARBOLIC ACID THROWN ON CONDUCTOR BY THIEF

WESTON, Ohio.—E. Tracy, B. & O. railroad detective, was badly burned about the head and eyes by carbolic acid, and was shot in the left hand during an encounter with thieves in the B. & O. station here about midnight Sunday night.

Tracy was taken to Mercy Hospital at Toledo, this morning. It is not believed the acid burns about his eyes will destroy his sight.

One of the men threw carbolic acid at Tracy with a squirt gun. His head, face and neck were badly burned. The men ran.

Tracy fired six shots at them, but was hampered by the stinging acid in his eyes. The men returned the fire, one shot striking Tracy in the hand.

ESCAPE MADE BY ALLEN-CO MAN

Thomas Spencer and Four Others Leave Prison Farm

Thomas Spencer, Allen-co prisoner, sentenced to the penitentiary for one to 20 years, on October 9, 1916, on an indictment returned September 22, the same year, on a charge of burglarizing an inhabited dwelling, was among five prisoners who escaped over Saturday and Sunday Warden P. E. Thomas announced Monday.

The men were employed at the London prison farm. One of the men, Charles Smedley, Richmond-co, sent up for from one to 20 years for assault, was recaptured near Summerport, while heading for his home in Richmond-co.

Another, Peter Osborne, Summit-co, serving from one to 20 years for forgery, returned to the warden's office Sunday. Other prisoners who escaped and are still missing are John Smith, negro, Butler-co, one to 20 years for manslaughter and Charles Stanfield, negro, Butler-co, one to 20 years for shooting with intent to wound.

GIRL AND MONEY MISSING

Police Seek to Intercept Ida Richardson at Cincinnati

Police Monday afternoon wired Cincinnati authorities to place under arrest Ida Richardson, 20, colored of this city, and detain her until Lima authorities arrived in the Queen City.

The woman is alleged to have stolen three checks amounting to $100 and a $20 bill from a purse belonging to Eli Hardy, colored, 1427 Norval-av., with whom she was living.

According to Hardy, the Richardson woman bought a ticket for New Orleans, La., and left Lima at 10 o'clock Monday morning on the south bound B. and O. train. She was able to purchase the ticket, Hardy says, by cashing one of the checks at a south side grocery.

The theft was committed while Hardy was at work, he declared.

The money and the checks were taken from a bill fold he had hidden in a photograph at his home.

Miss Richardson, he declared further, had lived with him for three years and there had never been any trouble before.

"I wouldn't be keered if she'd gone alone and left the money," Hardy said as he swore out the warrant for her arrest.

CHIEF ROUSH WARS ON USE OF STREETS AS AUTO "SALES ROOMS"

An old ordinance passed by city council during the war as an emergency measure in an attempt to keep Lima truck factories from storing Liberty trucks on the streets of Lima, was dug up Monday by police authorities in an effort to check the use of the streets of Lima as automobile sales display places.

The ordinance prohibits the parking of automobiles on the streets of Lima as a means of advertising them for sale. Considerable of a nuisance has been caused by old cars being parked for this purpose on some of the main thoroughfares of the city, Chief Roush declares.

INFANT BOOTHBY IS VICTIM OF DEATH

BAN JOHNSON IS BRANDED VILLAIN

Defense Declares Baseball Scandal Probe a Burlesque

OWNER OF CLUB CALLED GOAT

Throwing of Game Not Crime, Attorney Claims

CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press.)—Opening its final argument in the baseball trial, the defense today pictured the baseball scandal investigation and trial as a theatrical burlesque in which Ray Johnson, president of the American League, was the villain, and Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago club, the goat.

The entire case was merely another outbreak of the Comiskey-Johnson feud, said Henry Berger, first of the nine defense attorneys, to talk during the day. He defied the jury to find anything in Illinois laws making the throwing of a baseball game a crime. "There is no proof that the ball players intended thru throwing games in the 1915 world series to injure their club or their league," said Berger.

"To have intended to do so would have meant that they were trying to destroy themselves and that is absurd."

"The whole affair is a theatrical play—a farce, a burlesque—with its villains and its heroes."

"Over in his law office sits Charles V. Barrett, the prima donna American League attorney, who vamped Bill Burns."

"Next him sits the villain, the walking bank of the American League, Byron Bancroft Johnson, whose machinations of years finally have been successful."

"Johnson has had his revenge on Charles A. Comiskey, and it has been sweet. This villain—in theatrical terms, has tried for years to 'get' that gray haired-owner of the Chicago club and he finally has 'got' him. Fosing as a hero who would clean up baseball, Johnson has held the strings, the puppet have thrown the mud and and a score against Comiskey had been paid."

"And then we have the chorus—the state's attorney, Tyrrell and these others, who dance and sing as ordered."

"Maharg and Burns are the villains' chief assistants; the dupes of that master mind."

"When you read a verdict remember there is not a criminal case before you but another example of the insidious work of Byron Bancroft Johnson of his attack on Charles Comiskey."

Berger then analyzed the conspiracy laws in an attempt to prove there was no crime in the case."

HOLLENBACHER REMOVED TO STATE PENITENTIARY

Sheriff Charles W. Baxter removed Carl Hollenbacher, alleged wife slayer, to the state penitentiary at Columbus, Monday.

If medical examination there proves the theory and belief of his legal counsel that Hollenbacher is a victim of epilepsy, it is probable Hollenbacher will be ordered committed to the Lima State hospital here for treatment.

His counsel believes penitentiary physicians will so rule and that officials there will order Hollenbacher removed to the Lima state hospital without delay.

LURED TO RUIN BY BOLSHIEVISM

Russians Quit U. S. for New Regime, Had Enough

SAD FLIGHT NOW REVEALED

Former Detroit Art Student Tells of the Situation

WARSAW — (By Associated Press) — Ralph Rimar, formerly an art student in Detroit and Charleston, W. Va., who left the United States via Canada early in January this year with 700 other Russians, to take up life under Bolsheviki rule, is now in this city. All the other members of the party, he says, "have had enough of Bolshevism and wish they were back in the United States."

Mr. Rimar was in Soviet Russia three months, visiting Petrograd, Moscow, Kiev and other towns. Conditions generally, he said, were gradually becoming worse everywhere. The Bolsheviki confiscated all his documents, including $500, he said, as well as copies of application for American citizenship, when he crossed the Estonian frontier on his way to Soviet Russia. He is eager to return to the United States but without credentials, is unable to obtain a passport.

He says he never believed Bolshevism was a success in Russia but made the trip "to satisfy his curiosity and for fun" but that he didn't have any pleasure at all, and his curiosity is thoroughly satisfied. Mr. Rimar said he was arrested five times, went without a square meal for 12 weeks and that if he is ever able to get back to the United States he will stay there "for all time."

The prodigal says he made inquiries about Emma Goldman during his tour of Russia but no one with whom he talked knew her whereabouts. From other sources it was learned the departed American anarchist leader is living in Petrograd at a hotel conducted by the Soviets. Mr. Rimar went to the United States eight years ago from a part of Russia which is now included within the Polish republic and where his parents reside.

Many other Russians who left the United States within the past year for their native country have become dissatisfied and begun to drift back across the frontiers of states bordering Russia on the west. Some of these are planning to return to America—if they can arrange it.

Bolshevik soldiers guard the Soviet boundaries and only certain persons are given permission to leave the country, these including Polish prisoners who are being exchanged. Nevertheless, by bribery and other means, great numbers of persons are crossing into adjacent countries each night. Polish government officials have estimated that about 50,000 have been entering Poland from Russia every month, despite efforts of the Polish authorities to keep them out. Only a very small percentage of these people carry the proper Bolsheviki credentials.

The local order of Odd Fellows installed officers for the coming year: James Harter, Noble Grand; James Harrison, vice-grand; Aaron Shrider, R. S. N. G.; George Long, L. S. N. G.; Frank Hershey, warden; J. F. Irick, conductor; Joseph Dillon, chaplain; Edward Carr, R. S.; William Nollan, L. S. S.; John Friedl, R. S. V. G.; Rudolph Minig, L. S. V. # TROUBLE BREWS FOR SUCCESSFUL BREWER

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—With his experiment proving a success Tony Morz still maintains that it is a failure.

Tony didn't believe he could make satisfactory corn whiskey, but he tried.

Judge George West informed Tony in police court that since this was his first offense leniency would be shown. The fine would be $1 for each "kick" it registered. The court called a chemist. He tested a specimen of Tony's white whiskey. It registered 100 proof.

"One hundred dollars and sixty days in jail to think it over," said the judge.

GERMANY CALLED DRINK-CRAZED

Consumption of Liquor Greatly Increased Since War

"AMERICAN BARS" INSTALLED

Many Quit Beer, Turn to Whisky and Wine

BERLIN—Consumption of wine and liquors has been increasing so rapidly in Germany since the war that the reichstag has directed the drafting of a law, to be introduced at the September session, to regulate the traffic. The law also will check a growing increase in the number of saloons which, in Berlin particularly, has been so rapid that even the moderates say the health and morals of the people are endangered.

Take to Hard Liquors.

The crime wave which has been sweeping the country for many months, filling the jails of every city and severely taxing the resources of the police, is attributed by many to the "drink-craze" and especially to the more general use, among the poorer Germans, of cheap cognacs, green whiskeys, gin and other "hard liquors." The Germans, in fact, are gradually losing their old reputation as beer drinkers altho an abundance of beer is obtainable.

Practically all the cafes and wineries of Berlin are installing "American bars," and even the high-priced cabarets, where once only the best wines were served at tables for which a charge was made, now have long mahogany bars, against which the customer may lean, with his feet on a brass foot rail, and drink as long as he has the price of a drink or the bartender will trust him.

Wine Drinking Increases.

There is no charge for a place at the bar, but to sit at the tables it is compulsory to drink champagne, or some other wine of similar price, with proportionate profit to the proprietor.

The consumption of champagne has outstripped all previous records during the past 12 months, mounting to more than 12,000,000 bottles. The principal rendezvous of the heavy and habitual champagne drinker is the "night saloon," which does not open until late afternoon or early evening, but continues serving its customers until early morning, altho the official closing hour is 11:30 at night.

Publication of the statistics of champagne consumption recently brought a prompt demand from radical socialists and labor organinations for more rigorous control of this traffic which, it was alleged, represented the "privileges" secured by the profiteers and the moneyed foreigners who frequent the capital. There is also a widespread demand for enforcement of the closing law.

JAP WOULD ADOPT AMERICAN BABE

Puzzling Citizenship Case Before Judge Lindsey

By MICHAEL F. DAOEY

DENVER — (International News Service) — International relations and questions of citizenship and Christianity were involved in a case before Judge Ben B. Lindsey in Juvenile Court here when application was made for the adoption by an English woman, with a Japanese husband, of an American-born baby.

The citizenship of fifteen-month-old Mildred Lorraine Jones, daughter of an American mother, hung in the balance while Judge Lindsey pondered over the application of San Okazaki, Japanese, for adoption of the child.

According to immigration officials Little Mildred, if permitted to go to the Okazakis, would lose her American citizenship and could never regain it except by marriage to an American citizen.

Not willing to take the responsibility of robbing the child of its birthright, Judge Lindsey refused to grant the application for adoption, but declared the baby a dependent of the court and awarded its temporary care to Mr. and Mrs. Okazaki.

Judge Lindsey declared that the child's natural mother had forfeited her rights by neglecting the baby. The mother, now Mrs. Alta Jones Duff, announced that she would continue to fight for her baby, and has appealed to Federal officials for the restoration of the child to her.

Witnesses testified that the Okazakis had cared for little Mildred from the time she was a few weeks old and had given her the best of treatment. Testimony was offered by Mrs. Okazaki, a cultured and educated woman, to the effect that the fatherhood of Mildred was uncertain, and that the mother had consented in writing to the adoption of the baby when it was first taken by the Okazakis. Mrs. Okazaki stated that she had lost a son born several years ago and related a touching story of her desire to have Mildred to fill the void caused by the death of the boy born of her Japanese husband.

Okazaki is an ex-officer of the Japanese army, a graduate of Tokio University, and has taken courses in Columbia and Denver Universities. He is now engaged in business in Denver.

In his testimony he described how, thru the loss of his own son, born to his Christian wife, he had embraced Christianity, and said that he would have become an American citizen long ago if it had been possible.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—"Gimme gas" shouted C. Culbert as he drove his Ford up to a filling station here. "How much?" asked the station attendant.

LOYDS WIN RAIN BET

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The cards of fate are stacked against the St. Louis Municipal Opera Association. Rain, the insurance doesn't pay, say officials of the organization.

For eighteen days the association has bet Lloyds $50 to $1,000 that more than a tenth of an inch of rain would fall on the Railway Exchange Building roof, twenty stories high, between 4 and 8 p. m. While heavy showers have prevented presentation of operas in the west and operatic theatres, only slight sprinkles have fallen atop the specified building.

HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

BRACE UP AND CHEER UP.

This is another of a series of gossip on the subject of splanchnic anhedonia—that incapacity for perfect happiness which the victim of slumped or sagging inwards does his best to enjoy. We have told nearly everything about splanchnoptosis or falling of the viscera, except the symptoms. The symptoms are briefly—and the more briefly the better—for the victim to tell his or her own doctor. I'll confess we did print a choice list of the stigmata or marks of anhedonia in an earlier chapter of this tragedy, but with the utmost precaution against seizure by the symptom hounds.

The well nigh most hackneyed allusion appearing in this department refers to the great proportion of the total mass of blood in circulation that may remain practically out of circulation or stagnating in the vast network of blood vessels of the lower chest and abdomen, the splanchnic reservoir, in persons afflicted with false dignity, hatred for or fear of daily exercise, or the physiological senility which carries the role of cause and effect in a vicious circle or eddy that engulfs those who never do a morning roll or otherwise raise their heels higher than the seat of a chair. About thirty per cent of the blood of the body is thus permitted to stagnate in the splanchnic pool when one cultivates the futile abdomen. Laugh, now, and the redder your face grows; the more physical training you need under the diaphragm. That blood flushing your face when you involuntarily pump up pressure on the splanchnic pool by laughing is blood temporarily forced into circulation by the labors of your titillated diaphragm, lumbar, abdominal and chest muscles.

In one of the earlier chapters of this sad story I mentioned that it is possible by voluntary contraction of the abdomen and elevation of the chest to lift the colon or stomach or other organ two or three inches (this is a physiological fact established by X-ray observations.) Such abdominal exercise not only tends to diminish the evils we suffer from our upright posture; it also drives a good deal of slacker blood back into circulation. I have mentioned, too, that the corset gets in its wicked work by inducing atrophy and fatty degeneration of the abdominal and other muscles and this decreased abdominal tone or lessened intra-abdominal tension favors both splanchnoptosis and the stagnation of blood in the splanchnic vessels—wherefore women outnumber men about four to one as victims of splanchnoptosis, and women suffer about eight times more functional troubles of the pelvic organs than do men, thanks to the stagnant splanchnic pool.

"Brace yourself!" is the constant admonition dinned in the ears of the callow plebe at West Point. After a year or so of self-bracing the unhappy plebe becomes a cheerful yearling.

Hi Stubbins, Sez!

HELP! WANTED—Male.

A man to fill the office of Safety Director for City of Lima. He must have the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, he must be able to run the Police force and Fire Department without money, he must be a Sherlock Holmes to handle his Police affairs, a Sam Lloyd to solve its puzzles and above all he must know that his Honor, the Mayor, is King, Chief and Ruler of him—to such a man the salary of $12.50 per week will be paid.

A man does not need all of these qualifications to buy good furniture—all he needs is to know that The Hoover-Bond Company is the leading furniture store in Lima.

THE BOOK OF MEMORIES

Youth writes the book of memories for the old.

And tho the years be long, 'Le pages glow

With joys recorded from the long ago.

And glad adventures when the heart was bold.

Here the sweet romances are retold:

Before her raven tresses caught the snow.

How fair life was, but then we didn't know.

We lived it thru, dreaming that we should hold

Forever to the laughter and the song;

Then sorrow came with all her flood of tears.

But even thru the lonely days and long,

The faith which has sustained us bright appears.

Now in life's fading light we read it o'er.

And find our peace in what has gone before.

POP CORN VENDOR WAS AMBIGUOUS

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Two police officers approached a stand located near an amusement concession in this city. Above the stand the officers glimpsed a sign, "Pop Corn."

"It was 'corn' all right," said J. Cothorn, detective, when he reported back to headquarters, "but instead of being popped it was distilled."

Cothorn's visit to the stand followed the visits of the two other police officers. The owner of the stand readily sold the officers a gallon of "corn." He made his escape, amidst a volley of shots. Cothorn then destroyed the stand with an axe.

A NEW SAFETY DIRECTOR

MAYOR Burkhardt can well spare a moment's vacation from his arduous executive duties to study the proposal made by a prominent Lima citizen, accepting without salary, the position of Safety Director.

Mayor Burkhardt has publicly stated he could not secure a Safety Director because of the low salary; he has now offered him the services of a citizen, without cost; the salary being turned into the Police and Firemen's pension fund. This distinctly proves that salaries have nothing whatever to do with municipal officials. Our salaries are not large enough to command the services of good business men, except as those men are willing to serve their city as a duty.

The offer of Dr. A. F. Kniesly to His Honor is unique and has no parallel in the history of Lima. His letter as given the Mayor distinctly states he must have a free rein in his department and not be hampered by petty politics. It is this statement, if anything, that will prevent the Mayor from considering his proffer. Petty politics usually play far more dominant a part in municipal affairs than do salaries, and should Mayor Burkhardt have the true Americanism to name a man like Mr. Kniesly, he will have at least shown the public he is above petty politics. He has the chance to erase from the minds of the people also the belief that they now hold against him of interfering with his appointees.

The action of Mayor Burkhardt will be awaited with keen interest, and the first time during his reign he has opportunity to show that he stands for the city's best interests first; politics secondly.

FAMOUS OLD LOCOMOTIVE

MORE than a third of a century ago, when railroad kings thought as much of their "iron steeds" and their record-making abilities as the most ardent race horse man ever thought of his equines, the country used to experience thrills when announcements of record runs via rail were made.

One of these famous locomotives, the "999," drew the Empire State Express across the state of New York, on the New York Central Lines. One day in 1893 it established a new world's record for railroad speed at 112.5 miles and hour. And that record still stands. Later in that summer the locomotive was placed on exhibition, in the refuge of its own glory, at the world's fair in Chicago. After it drifted into branch line service a few years later, the ancient locomotive was little heard of.

But the glory won in 1893 has not faded from memory. The old "999" under its own power made the run across country to Chicago, where it was exhibited last week in the Pageant of Progress. It was rebuilt and repainted in its original colors and drew the famous DeWitt Clinton train across the country to the Windy City, where the slowest locomotive and the fastest one were shown, side by side.

To Charley Hogan, veteran engineer who was at the throttle when the "999" made its record in 1893, was given the honor of taking the engine to Chicago last week. Hogan's heart experienced a thrill as he again fondled the throttle of his oldtime favorite of the rail. All along the way thousands cheered locomotive and engineer. The name of Hogan and the "999" were shrilled around the world. After a brief vacation, the locomotive goes back to service on the Beech Creek mining line in Pennsylvania. But it will never be altogether forgotten.

A CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD

A FINE opportunity is presented for Uncle Sam to demonstrate to the world at large that he really meant something more than a jumble of meaningless words when he said that, at the very first opportunity, he intended doing something for Russia.

This country has always posed as the friend of the nation that switched from a monarchical form of government toward a democracy so quickly that it lost its head and became bolshevik, after various mild forms of socialism had been tried and found very much wanting.

Russia is now recovering from its mad governmental debauch. Becoming sober and sane again, its hands are held up in piteous appeal for aid. Its people are starving by the millions. They have nowhere else to turn than toward America. Repeated assurances were given that when the people over there were ready for reason, Uncle Sam would aid them.

It looks now like that time is near at hand. Lenin and Trotsky have failed, even worse than did Gorky and Kerensky. A demand that Russia liberate American prisoners in that country as the price of food and succor has been complied with. The people need help and need it quickly, if millions are to be saved from death from insufficient food and from exposure the coming winter.

Men who have studied European conditions are a unit in expression of the belief that America must act and act quickly in aid of Russia, in the name of humanity.

In my literary research work among the smaller newspapers of the country I came across the following in a paper published in Skowhegan, Me. These were published under the heading of "Society Notes," which shows this society is only relative after all:

Letters from Miss Loesa Tibbetts, who is now employed as a waitress at Belgrade Lakes, states that she likes her present location very much.

Harry Wells and family wish to thank the Ladies' Aid for sewing and all others, while Mrs. Wells was in the hospital with blood poisoning.

Nellie, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Green of Madison was operated on for appendicitis last Monday. It was a pain case.

Newspapers are influenced by the environment in which they happen to be published. I have seen a native of Skowhegan read items like the above without the slightest symptom of a smile.

HOW IT WORKS OUT

THESE manufacturers of shoes and leather goods very frankly tell us that they do not need and are not asking for any tariff on shoes or leather. But they say if you put a duty on hides we will of course have to have a compensatory duty on shoes. What does that mean? It means that the farmer will get about 30 cents more for a hide, and that hide will make 10 pairs of shoes, and the manufacturer and shoe retailer will use it as an excuse to add on at least a dollar a pair, or $10 to the hide, and the farmer will get 30 or 50 cents extra for his hide, and pay probably $10 or $12 extra for shoes for his entire family.

That is a great protection to the raisers of hides!—Representative Bankhead (D.), Alabama.

CINDERELLA TODAY

By RUBY M. AYERS

Nicholas Stanford went up to the following morning; he and Pauline had had a very good night together. Cyntha, as usual, was in her room.

Stanford had a miserable journey home. He felt tired and out of sorts, and the carriage was cold and empty. He looked a very sick man indeed when he was shown in Mr. Chantry's room.

"I thought you were never coming to see me," Mr. Chantry said, with a look of kindly concern. "The young man's face is pale. I trust he has been ill again."

"I've come about this—my Langton estate," he said. He looked at the older man squarely. "What is the position if I refuse to have anything to do with it—if I decline to take the money—or to accept anything?"

Mr. Chantry was used to surprises. His face changed a little as he looked at his client.

"The position would be that young Langton inherits everything," he answered after a moment. Stanford nodded.

"Very well; that's what I want. I leave it in your hands, I suppose?"

Mr. Chantry started.

"I'm afraid I don't quite understand," he said quietly.

"I mean that I refuse, once and for all, to have anything to do with the Manor House estate—that I, Langton—my cousin, you tell me—is to have everything—his share of the whole business roughly settled at any rate, made public during the next ten days. Is such a thing possible—in law?" he asked in a faint smile.

"But, my dear sir—," Stanford made a little impatient gesture.

"My mind is made up—I'm sorry you are annoyed with me, but my mind is made up." He laughed. "It makes no difference to me. I take it, and it will make a world of difference to me."

"I will," Mr. Chantry agreed. "A difference of some hundred thousand pounds."

"Which I don't want—and which I don't have. I've nothing more to say except that the whole business must be put thru quickly. I want to be married in three weeks, and before then it has got to be generally known that Rodney Langton has come into this money—the Manor House and all the rest of the bag of tricks. Do you understand what I mean?"

"Perfectly."

"And you know where Langton is?"

"He is in France."

"I know; but that doesn't make it possible to get hold of him. What does it?"

"It may mean a couple of days. Very well—then I leave it to you," Stanford rose; he looked a little better and happier than he had when he came in.

"There is nothing more to be done here, for it is not necessary to suppose, for it to be made known that I have done it—I mean, can my cousin be left out of it?"

Mr. Chantry hesitated.

"Well, it could, of course, but you are so very complicated matter."

"I'll do as you like, only things up; that's all I want."

Stanford let himself into the house dis-creetly. It seemed very quiet, and it was a long time before he appeared in the kitchen regions.

"Everybody out?" Stanford asked. "Pauline has gone down to post," Mason answered. "And Cyntha and the mistress are out."

Pauline came in.

She wore the three-and-sispeny tam-o-shanter, and she glanced at Stanford in a frightened sort of way as she tried to pass him.

"I was just coming to meet you," he said. Mason had discreetly disappeared.

The color rose in the girl's cheeks. "Whatever for?" she asked lightly. "I only want to send a telegram for Cyntha—oh!" she broke off.

Stanford laughed dryly at her obvious distress.

"There's no need to be upset," he said. "I can guess the rest for myself."

Pauline raised her head with dignity.

"I don't know what you mean," she said resentfully.

Stanford turned on his heel and went into the library, and after a moment she followed.

"Of course, I know what you're thinking," Pauline said. Her face was quivering, and her voice was not quite steady.

"Rodney Langton may be dead now, for all we know—Cyntha heard this afternoon that he has been badly wounded, and is not expected to live."

"Not expected to live! Then why—?"

He broke off with a dazed sort of feeling.

"Oh, poor Cyntha," said Pauline. "It's dreadful for her—I thought she would have fainted when she heard! I know I ought not to be telling you all this, but you know so much already, what does it matter? She wanted to rush off to him at once, only of course, she wouldn't be allowed; and Mrs. Boulton—I'm beginning to think that Cyntha's just been made what she is by Mrs. Boulton! Cyntha has got a heart. Captain Stanford, whatever you may say or think! And she does love Rodney. * * * Oh, dear! What am I saying now!"

"You're not saying anything that I haven't known for a long time," he assured her rather sadly.

"Anyway, it's no use crying. But you might try and be extra nice to Cyntha," she said as a parting shot. "She must be a broken-hearted thing."

Stanford smiled wryly.

After dinner Cyntha was left with Stanford.

There was a little silence; then he said deliberately:—

"I am very sorry to hear that young Langton is so badly wounded. Cyntha did not move. Her beautiful eyes stared before her with a frozen look in them; then with an effort she forced herself to answer:—

"Yes * * * yes * * * I am sorry, too. It's hard luck—after coming thru safely all this time."

"Shall we go into the drawing room? I have some new songs."

She played the opening bars and began a melody:—

Wait for me, dear, if you pass among
The hills that stand by the golden gate.
I shall be coming at evensong * * *

The well trained voice broke suddenly; she hid her face in her hands and burst into bitter weeping.

Stanford felt an uncomfortable choking in his own throat.

Cyntha made desperate attempts to check her tears. "I don't know why I'm crying," she said with a sob. "I'm silly. * * * My head aches."

"Isn't it a heart ache, Cyntha?" he asked rather sadly.

She shook her head. "I don't know what you mean!"

He drew her back to the fire and made her sit down in an armchair.

"We've got to have things out," he said harshly. "We're neither of us happy or satisfied—and if we marry—"

She gave a panic-stricken cry.

"You mean that you don't want to marry me * * *"

"Do you want to marry me?" he asked with a faint smile.

"I do! Of course, I do! Oh, I don't understand you! What has happened? Oh, you are unkind."

"I'm trying to be kind," he answered ruefully. "I know that perhaps he'll go under. * * * And so, for God's sake let's be honest with one another—at last! You don't care for me * * *"

"I do—I do," she protested sobbing.

"Well, you don't love me, but I that way then," he amended his words. "And I don't care for you as a man should care for the woman he is to marry. * * * You know that, Cyntha—and you're content to still marry me. * * *"

"You've no right to speak to me like this. I said I would marry you—I will! I want to—"

"My dear, let us face things as they are," he said, after a moment. "It's Langton you care for * * *"

"I can't marry him—even if I did, she protested incoherently. "You've never seen Mr. Langton—and * * * and, anyway * * *"

Another sob shook her. She rose to her feet, wiping her eyes.

"We've both been very silly," she said brokenly. "But it's all over now. I don't want to marry Rodney, of course—I've known him so long—ever since I was—was quite a little girl—but * * * but that's all, really and truly—Nicholas!"

"Is that the truth, Cyntha—the real truth?"

She tried to say "Yes," but she could not. Her head drooped.

"Oh, I wish I didn't care," she said, in a sobbing whisper. "I don't want to have a heart—but I can't just hate it, and so would * * * any one—after just at first, perhaps."

There was a little silence, then Nicholas said:—

"But—if you didn't have to be poor—what then?"

Cyntha looked up with a flash of weary hopefulness in her eyes.

"I don't know what you mean," she said helplessly. "Oh, please forget all this foolishness," she begged him. Stanford went on steadily.

"You told me once that but for some cousin of Langton's he would inherit the Manor House property."

"Yes, but there's no hope of that! The cousin has turned up."

"I know," said Stanford. "Because I happen to be the cousin."

"You! Then, after all, I shall be able to live at the Manor House?" she said.

Stanford frowned. He was filled with distaste.

"I can't believe it," she said again, breathlessly.

"It's quite true, Chantry came to see me about it ten days ago. Cyntha, I'm going to give it up to Langton—and his wife."

Her beautiful face was a study.

"Give it up—to Rodney!" she echoed, in bewilderment. "Oh, you can't possibly mean it!"

"I assure you I do. I don't want to settle in England. I don't want the idea of living in the Manor House. Langton is welcome to it. He's a fine chap, I'm sure, and I'd like to see him happy—with you," he added deliberately.

Her eyes fell before his. "You mean—that you wouldn't mind—not to marry me?" she said uncertainly.

Stanford took her hand gently. "Don't put it that way, Cyntha. Let us say instead that we've been lucky enough to have found out our mistake before it was too late."

"But are you sure you can do it? I mean, can't the law stop it?"

Nicholas laughed.

"No law can prevent a man from giving away his own property if he wishes to do so. I have made all inquiries. I saw Chantry again yesterday."

Cyntha laughed—a high, excited little laugh.

"And—oh—is he going to tell mother?"

Cyntha asked nervously.

Stanford answered promptly: "I will."

There was a slight frown on Cyntha's face.

"It all seems so unreal and impossible," she said. "How can it all be explained?"

He assured her. "A paragraph in the papers, a few words to special friends—and there you are."

"And—Rodney?" she asked, hesitatingly. "You don't think that perhaps he might—refuse?"

He shook his head. "He would never put his pride before you."

She laughed a happy little laugh of sheer excitement. "No, he would put me before anything in the world," she agreed. Then she sighed. "But he is so ill—"

"He will soon get well when he hears your news."

There was a little silence.

"I haven't thanked you," Cyntha said, with sudden humility. "I can't thank you, somehow."

"Don't try—there's nothing to thank me for."

"So I am to give you back your ring—I am so fond of it!"

"I hope you will keep it," he answered quickly. "It's no use to me, and I should like you to keep it—please!"

Later, when he went down the road to dispatch a letter to Mr. Chantry, Pauline overtook him, bound for the same destination.

"I suppose you've already heard the news which is to set all Starley talking?"

"The news? What news? There was a shade of anxiety in her voice. What is it?"

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

In her work at the store Cherry soon began to discover that she was making some real friends in Wellesburg. Women who had been only casual acquaintances before, who had called punctiliously at the family mansion and snatched affably to Mrs. Randall and her, now commenced to warm up to the energetic, clever little designer of hats, who had in so short a time established an attractive millinery department in their midst, and who was always so cheerful and willing to help with suggestions, all who dropped into her corner.

"I declare, I'll have to begin to serve afternoon tea here if things keep on," she confided to Arthur Hamlen, Jr., one afternoon after handling a particularly large and eager throng of lady customers.

"They just sit in here like they were hypnotized. It's an idea to make the hats right under their noses, as I do. Makes it all the more intimate, you see."

"Well, judging by the books, Mrs. Randall, we could easily afford to serve tea here, thanks to your sales. There's never been anything like it in the history of Hamlen & Sons, honestly. Dad's pleased to death. Takes all the credit to himself, too. He little dreams that that 'all went in thru my talk with you the afternoon we had tea together. No, indeed."

"Well, let's keep that our own little secret. Mr. Hamlen. It does not matter, now, anyhow. I've got what I wanted—so has Hamlen & Son's."

Feel Weak, Tired, "All Played Out?"

Does the least exertion tire you out? Do you feel "blue" and worried, suffer dragging backache, headaches and dizziness? Too many women blame so-called "female trouble" for this unhappy state of weakness, which so often are the cause. You must act quickly to prevent more serious trouble. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of weak, tired women. They should help you. Ask your neighbor.

A case in Lima:

Mrs. H. E. Simpson, 625 E. Kibby St., says: "I had a dragging ache in my back and was so lame I could hardly get up or down. My kidneys acted up terribly. Mornings I felt more tired than before going to bed, and I was often bothered with dizziness. I tried different remedies without relief, but when I used Doan's Kidney Pills, the trouble left me.—Adv."

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond. But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly! Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit. Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise, that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little ones.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them, to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA.

WARNING

to all Ohio motor car users

OHIO'S new headlight law (Amended Senate Bill No. 156—approved by Governor Davis) provides that:

"No headlights shall be used on any motor vehicle upon the highways except after the installation of a device to prevent glare, which device has been certified and approved by the state highway commissioner." Fines run as high as $100.

Get Lawful Lenses

Protect yourself from detention, arrest, and fine. Use Macbeth or Liberty lenses—approved by the Ohio highway commissioner. Lawful in all states.

Macbeth and Liberty lenses stop the glare without cutting down the flood of light. You get an abundance of safe light; you can see where you are going without endangering yourself or others.

Beware of Painted Lenses

Paint will wear off or wash off, and then such lenses are illegal, and subject you to arrest and fine. The green in the Macbeth Green Visor lens is fused into the visor and is a permanent part of the lens. Never fades, never chips off, never wears off.

LIBERTY LENS
NEVER A GLARE $3 per pair
Seven horizontal and six vertical prisms, without visor, control the light as required by law, and are always free from glare.

Buy Yours Today!

For more than 50 years the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company has been renowned for its scientific glass. Macbeth battleship and lighthouse lenses have the approval of the United States Government. Equip your car with Macbeth or Liberty lenses today. Do not delay. The demand for lenses under this new law will be heavy. Get yours while the dealer has them.

icantly and impressively.
latest international events are encouraging.

railroads — the country's low that wages have been low.

They contemplate early purmillion dollars coming to them the government; June reports easier, so that now rail-issues for the second half of are likely to exceed the $370-00 bonds and notes issued durfirst half of the year.

in shipments last week were ed only once during 1920:
cal, financial assistance for has been arranged on quit-le, and the current year's crop, ded, is speaking, are proving abunant all reports agree that our nural population are reducg debts and reviving their courage.

ident Grace of the Bethlehem Company, following the decla-of the full dividend rates, reed more orders during the sec-quarter than in the first quaryear, and added that "a grad-increase in the volume of business now on is to be expected."
a consumption of gasoline a marked increase, a circume regarded as significant.

ormous numbers of buyers are anning the leading cities, most m in search of goods for immeor very early delivery. It is ad-ed that stocks of merchandise held at the country are now abnormy small. Already the keenness of emand has raised prices for n women goods and also cotton in the primary markets.
In a Review concludes with this:
"Without departing from perspective and prudent policies, interests are beginning to anticipate forward requirements, especially in textiles, and producers benefiting from the change of a attitude."

ce it was the over straining to teaking point of money and which caused the unsound er bound to burst, it is impert consider whether deflation has a course.
only might be given in one sen-e: "Bank reserves are now higher called for, and there are am-onetary resources to take care ing recovery in business."

l loans in New York ended the at 3 1-2 percent, the lowest noted in almost 2 years. Lend-time loans in Wall-st are find-w borrowers even at the lower now offered here. Commercial are still unduly high in many, but this is being corrected.
offerings of high grade securire relatively light at present.
he indications are that under-will have to consent to bring ture flotations at somewhat ields. The bank of France ed its rate last week to 5 1-2 ent following the announce-of bank rate cuts, not merely a country, but in London, Cogen, Stockholm, Christiania, els, Calcutta, and in Switzerland.
At the end of the week the al Reserve bank of Chicago fed by lowering its discount rate of reserve for all our fed-erative banks combined rose last to 6 1-2 which is half as much as that carried a year ago. The York bank has reserves in ex-of 72 per cent while its ratio of reserves to federal reserve amount against deposits has now ed the extraordinary figure of er cent. A year ago it was less 15 per cent.

e circulation has been reduced umately $870,000,000 so far ear, and discounts have been down $1,300,000,000. Total erves held by the reserve are now well over $2,500,000-000,000 a year ago. At New along the increase has reached 00,000 during the 12 months deflation set in.
is interesting to record that a gaining of 1915 America's fed-erative banks held only a trifle 250,000,000 as contrasted with total of $2,530,000,000—
en times the 1915 total.
are extraordinary changes ered in conjunction with the on which has been effected the last 12 months in most ies, in agriculture, in wages, ies and in the general cost of n, the conclusion is abundantified that foundations have been laid for revived activity in directions.
course, there are still certain and certain wages—in ane coal for example — which not yet been brought into line the general readjustment. Also
